

Cartographies of Knowledge: Exploring Qualitative Epistemologies

Celine-Marie Pascale

*audiobook / ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

#1638316 in Books SAGE Publications, Inc 2010-11-04 Original language: English PDF # 1 9.02 x .46 x 6.091, .65 #File Name: 1412954967216 pages | File size: 55.Mb

Celine-Marie Pascale : Cartographies of Knowledge: Exploring Qualitative Epistemologies before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Cartographies of Knowledge: Exploring Qualitative Epistemologies:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By GGreat0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Elizabeth H. Trimble Got a good deal, it arrived on time, and it is a good resource. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. An excellent and reader-friendly overview of epistemological stances By Dr. G. This is an excellent and comprehensive overview of the most relevant epistemological positions for doing social sciences. Without being abstruse and ideologically skewed toward any one of the two main general positions of, on the one side, objectivism and realism and, on the other, subjectivism and constructivism, it provides outstanding tools to plan, understand, and perform social research in the contemporary world.

Mapping geographies of power and knowledge in qualitative research "In this foundational tome, Professor Celine-Marie Pascale critiques methodology in relationship to specific qualitative methods and argues cogently that despite good intentions, most of this research is still tethered to the Cartesian paradigm thus limiting its emancipatory potential. This is an impressive book that will likely become a classic!" Eduardo Bonilla-Silva, Duke University, co-author with Tukufu Zuberi, White Logic, White Methods: Racism and Methodology 2012 Winner of the International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry Distinguished Book Award! Using clear language and concrete examples, this text examines theoretical and historical foundations that shape the premise and logic of qualitative social research. It analyzes qualitative methodology and methods in relationship to issues of agency, subjectivity, and experience. Rooted to feminist, critical race, and post-structural literature, it is concerned with social justice as it critiques current research paradigms and advances broad alternatives. This is an ideal text for students in graduate-level courses in Methodology, Epistemology, Qualitative Research Methods, Data Analysis, Ethnomethodology, Symbolic Interaction, Phenomenology, Grounded Theory, and related courses in the social, behavioral, and health sciences.

About the Author Celine-Marie Pascale is an associate professor in the Department of Sociology at American University, Washington, DC, where she teaches courses on language and inequality. Her primary scholarly interest is in exploring the (re)production of culture, knowledge, and power through sociological analyses of language and representation. Most broadly, she has expertise in qualitative methodologies and contemporary theory. Professor Pascale received the 2008 Distinguished Contribution to Scholarship Book Award from the American Sociological Association Section on Race, Gender, and Class for her first book Making Sense of Race, Gender and Class: Commonsense, Power and Privilege in the United States (Routledge, 2007). Pascale's second book Cartographies of Knowledge: Exploring Qualitative Epistemologies was published by Sage in 2010. Pascale's scholarship also is published in numerous national and international peer-reviewed journals. She serves as president of the Research Committee on Language and Society for the International Sociological Association and is a former Research Media Fellow of the Center for Social Media at American University.