

[Mobile book] Cities and Cinema (Routledge Critical Introductions to Urbanism and the City)

Cities and Cinema (Routledge Critical Introductions to Urbanism and the City)

Barbara Mennel

**Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks*

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#1264036 in Books Barbara Mennel 2008-04-16 2008-03-31 Original language: English PDF # 1 11.00 x .58 x 8.50l, .96 #File Name: 0415364469256 pages Cities and Cinema Routledge Critical Introductions to Urbanism and the City | File size: 53.Mb

Barbara Mennel : Cities and Cinema (Routledge Critical Introductions to Urbanism and the City) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Cities and Cinema (Routledge Critical Introductions to Urbanism and the City):

2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. A Timely Thesis - How Cinema Reflects the City By kenduran This is a must read for anyone interested in film, in particular those seeking to understand and analyze the ubiquitous yet elusive relationship between city and film. In so doing, this book scans film history from the 1920s to the 1990s while solely focusing on films that reflect the city. Mennel's insights leave a concise imprint on the reader by detailing that which constitutes a city film and how a film director accomplishes inclusion in this genre. As a result, the reader is enriched with a new understanding of the interconnection between cinemas and cities and is exposed to numerous film titles in the process. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Four Stars By Sergio A. Lopez Very good condition! 0 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Excellent Service By Good Lookin I am very happy with my purchase. It actually arrived before my class started. When I contacted the seller they assured me that my purchase would go out immediately, which it did. Also, I checked several other retailers and The Book Community US had the best price of all. Thank you for this product and the timely fashion in which it was delivered. Gloria Philadelphia, PA

Films about cities abound. They provide fantasies for those who recognize their city and those for whom the city is a faraway dream or nightmare. How does cinema rework city planners hopes and city dwellers fears of modern urbanism? Can an analysis of city films answer some of the questions posed in urban studies? What kinds of vision for the future and images of the past do city films offer? What are the changes that city films have undergone? Cities and Cinema puts urban theory and cinema studies in dialogue. The book's first section analyzes three important genres of city films that follow in historical sequence, each associated with a particular city, moving from the city film of the Weimar Republic to the film noir associated with Los Angeles and the image of Paris in the cinema of the French New Wave. The second section discusses socio-historical themes of urban studies, beginning with the relationship of film industries and individual cities, continuing with the portrayal of war torn and divided cities, and ending with the cinematic expression of utopia and dystopia in urban science fiction. The last section negotiates the question of identity and place in a global world, moving from the portrayal of ghettos and barrios to the city as a setting for gay and lesbian desire, to end with the representation of the global city in transnational cinematic practices. The book suggests that modernity links urbanism and cinema. It accounts for the significant changes that city film has undergone through processes of globalization, during which the city has developed from an icon in national cinema to a privileged site for transnational cinematic practices. It is a key text for students and researchers of film studies, urban studies and cultural studies.

About the Author Barbara Mennel is an Assistant Professor of German Studies and Cinema Studies in the Department of Germanic and Slavic Studies and in the Film and Media Program at the University of Florida, Gainesville. She is author of The Representation of Masochism and Queer Desire in Literature and Film (2007).