

[Free] Completing Your Qualitative Dissertation: A Road Map From Beginning to End

Completing Your Qualitative Dissertation: A Road Map From Beginning to End

Linda Dale Bloomberg, Marie F. Volpe
ebooks | Download PDF | *ePub | DOC | audiobook

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#374648 in Books SAGE Publications, Inc 2012-04-26 2012-05-10Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 10.00 x .78 x 7.00l, 1.30 #File Name: 1452202702344 pages | File size: 61.Mb

Linda Dale Bloomberg, Marie F. Volpe : Completing Your Qualitative Dissertation: A Road Map From Beginning to End before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Completing Your Qualitative Dissertation: A Road Map From Beginning to End:

8 of 8 people found the following review helpful. A life saver!By RPPBloomberg and Volpe's work is truly a god-send if you are writing a qualitative dissertation. Many of the qualitative research books are so arcane that you can't really understand what they are saying until you've actually written a dissertation. Bloomberg/Volpe's work is direct, accessible, and has lots of examples and check lists. I am writing my dissertation now and refer to it almost daily.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. A total gem!By Jessica BI have been struggling for over a year on the theoretical foundations and the concept phase overall. I stumbled across this book by accident, what a great find. Explains in plain language the nuances of qualitative research, why there's so much conflicting information out there, and best of all gives you confidence that this ambiguity is part of the process, not an issue you need to fix before proceeding.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Most useful dissertation guide availableBy R. L. FARLEYQualitative Dissertations are hard. I just successfully defended mine and I might not have succeeded without this book. Bloomberg and Volpe lay out all the steps from proposal to defense. The example they use is an especially effective guide that provides a template for every chapter. The subject they used in their sample dissertation was especially useful and helped me more than once to refocus on getting done. I bought several books to help me in the finishing stages of my research and writing. This was by far the best.

Graduate students often struggle with turning qualitative research projects into a masters thesis or doctoral dissertation because the research itself is inherently messy. Completing Your Qualitative Dissertation: A Roadmap From Beginning to End, Second Edition helps address that challenge. Linda Dale Bloomberg and Marie Volpe have distilled decades of experience of dissertation advisement and successful doctoral defenses into this highly practical reference for graduate students. They focus on finding and articulating a clear research problem, purpose, and questions; laying out a research design that will lead to gathering the right kind of data and support the right kind of analysis; and writing up and defending the study. To help, they provide working tools, an integrative summary discussion at the end of each chapter, comprehensive checklists, and an annotated bibliography in each chapter.

I would definitely recommend the Bloomberg and Volpe text to students preparing a thesis or a dissertation because it provides such clear, practical guidelines and examples. It is the best guide I have read. --Sharon Piety-Nowell (11/02/2011)"This book should be included in every qualitative methods course. It is unique in its approach. Students need samples together with explanations, which this book accomplishes well. The book does not oversimplify either. It complements whatever texts may be used with it because it serves a unique purpose that the others do not. --Denise F. Blum (11/02/2011)" I would definitely recommend the Bloomberg and Volpe text to students preparing a thesis or a dissertation because it provides such clear, practical guidelines and examples. It is the best guide I have read. --Sharon Piety-Nowell (11/02/2011)" This book should be included in every qualitative methods course. It is unique in its approach. Students need samples together with explanations, which this book accomplishes well. The book does not oversimplify either. It complements whatever texts may be used with it because it serves a unique purpose that the others do not. --Denise F. Blum (11/02/2011)" I would definitely recommend the Bloomberg and Volpe text to students preparing a thesis or a dissertation because it provides such clear, practical guidelines and examples. It is the best guide I have read. (Sharon Piety-Nowell 2011-11-02)This book should be included in every qualitative methods course. It is unique in its approach. Students need samples together with explanations, which this book accomplishes well. The book does not oversimplify either. It complements whatever texts may be used with it because it serves a unique purpose that the others do not. (Denise F. Blum 2011-11-02)About the AuthorLinda Dale Bloomberg is former adjunct faculty in adult learning and leadership at Teachers College, Columbia University. As senior researcher for the South African Human Sciences Research Council and National Institute for Personnel Research, Dr. Bloombergs work focused on change management, diversity initiatives, and enhanced workplace learning. She currently teaches qualitative research in graduate programs, serves as dissertation advisor, and also serves as consultant to various research, higher education, and nonprofit advisory boards. She is founder of Bloomberg Associates and ILIAD (Institute for Learning Innovations and Adult Development), and a cofounder of Columbia Universitys Global Learning and Leadership Institute. She has authored and edited numerous publications in the fields of organizational evaluation, qualitative research, leadership development, adult learning, and distance education, including 100 Questions (and Answers) About a Qualitative Dissertation (Sage, 2016). She is currently working on Executive Coaching: Supporting Adult Development and Implications for Learning and Leadership. Dr. Bloomberg holds masters degrees in counseling psychology, organizational psychology, and Jewish education. In 2006 she received her doctorate in adult education and organizational learning from Columbia University.Marie Volpe is adjunct faculty in adult learning and leadership at Teachers College, Columbia University, where she teaches dissertation seminars and serves as advisor to doctoral candidates. She conducts workshops for teachers in Mongolia and lectures on qualitative research methods at Suzhou University, China. After a career spanning thirty-fiveyears with Exxon Corporation, where she held the position of manager of education and development, Dr. Volpe embarked on a second career in higher education, in which she has practiced for the past twenty years. She has contributed to publications in the areas of staff development and informal learning in the workplace. She received her masters in organizational psychology and doctorate in adult education from Columbia University.