Laxman D. Satya : Cotton and Famine in Berar 1850-1900 before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Cotton and Famine in Berar 1850-1900:

Examines the forceful impact of the Industrial revolution on the material condition of the masses and how it changed social relations in Berar, the prime cotton producing region within the empire. Studies activities of colonial state in context of world economy driven by cotton crisis due to the American Civil War and addresses critical linkage between cotton, British imperialism and famine in Berar.
