Azizur Rahman Khan, Carl Riskin : Inequality and Poverty in China in the Age of Globalization before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Inequality and Poverty in China in the Age of Globalization:

China's explosive economic growth since 1988 has not resulted in an equal increase of income among all Chinese citizens. The authors explore a range of reasons for the disparity and base their conclusions on strong empirical evidence--especially the 1996 survey conducted by the State Statistical Bureau.

A valuable contribution ... The study sounds an alarm at the right time. It provides new data for the ongoing debates of transition to market economies. This book is a valuable reference for researchers and students interested in China studies, development economics, and statistics and sociology. * The China Quarterly *About the AuthorAzizur Rahman Khan is at University of California, Riverside.
