Jeffrey D. Thielman, Raymond A. Schroth : Volunteer with the Poor in Peru before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Volunteer with the Poor in Peru:

lightly creased back cover, unmarked

From Library Journal Thielman, a member of the Jesuit Volunteer Corps in Peru just after his college graduation, and Schroth recount Thielman's experiences based upon the latter's journal. The story is challenging in its open account of the progression of Thielman's feelings, his failures, his successes, and his reluctance to return to the United States after his encounter with massive poverty and indifference to the desperation of the poor. He struggles to build the Working Children of Cristo Rey Center and discovers that he has become so task-oriented that he incorporates some of the bureaucratic attitudes he abhors. However, he succeeds in building the Center and leaves it in the hands of the empowered poor. Recommended for seminary and public libraries. Copyright 1991 Reed Business Information, Inc. About the Author Raymond A. Schroth, S.J., is a Jesuit priest and a journalist. He is the author of six books, including "Dante to Dead Man Walking: One Reader's Journey through the Christian Classics", and "American Journey of Eric Sevareid". He has also written more than 300 articles and reviews on politics, religion, and the media, which have appeared in such publications as the "Los Angeles Times", "Boston Globe", "Newsday", and "America", and he is an award-winning media critic for the "National Catholic Reporter", for which he writes a regular column.
